Susanne Hofmann graduated from the Architectural Association in 1992. In 2003 she started the office Susanne Hofmann Architekten & die Baupiloten, where her work focuses on innovative experimental design that is driven by both a social and ecological agenda. The foundation of each project is defined by intensive user participation that is integral to the design process. The practice specializes in public clients and educational buildings. Their projects, which have won numerous awards and have been widely published, include universities, schools, kindergartens and housing. //lecture will be held in german //
